

loves
o leave th room, when he ell upon a little bottl d near the looking-glass. el this time with the words 'DRI ss she uncorked it and put it to her li esting is sure to happen,' she said to herse so I'll just see what this bottle does. I do hope it'l te tired of being such a tiny little thing!' It did so indeed, had drunk half the bottle, she found her head pressing against t broken. She hastily put down the bottle, saying to herself 'That's quite e out at the door--I do wish I hadn't drunk quite so much!' Alas! it was too late to w on had to kneel down on the floor: in another minute there was not even room for this, a he door, and the other arm curled round her head. Still she went on growing, and, as a last resourc e, she put one

, and was just going t e r eye
e that stoo
There was no lab NK ME,' but neverthele
ps. 'I know SOMETHING inter If, 'whenever I eat or drink anything I make me grow large again, for really I'm qu and much sooner than she had expected: before she he ceiling, and had to stoop to save her neck from being nough--I hope I shan't grow any more--As it is, I can't ge ish that! She went on growing, and growing, and very so he tried the effect of lying down with one elbow against t arm out of the window, and one foot up the chimney, an